

bridgevaria.com

Free new bridge website

Good news for all bridge players: a new free bridge website can be visited at www.bridgevaria.com. The site contains puzzles, stories, quizzes, columns, books, the questions section and a lot more.

One part of bridgevaria.com is 'active' (the 'do'-part), the other part is just for entertainment' (the 'read'-part).

The active part contains puzzles and quizzes; in the 'read' section you will find stories (about great bids and plays by great players), columns, books, the questions section and a lot more. There is even a section for the best stories sent in by our visitors, so everyone is welcome to submit.

In every section and article the degree of difficulty is shown by a number of stars, so every visitor can easily choose his or her own preferred level.

An important feature is that bridgevaria.com publishes new content every day – one more reason to visit this unique site every day.

Bridgevaria.com is in English but it's made by a Dutch team: Ed Hoogenkamp, Peter van der Linden and Pien Steringa. They have more than won their spurs in the world of bridge publicity.

For questions or remarks please contact the editors at info@bridgevaria.com.

Why wait? Take a look now at www.bridgevaria.com!

www.bridgevaria.com